County, MNR, hope to curb hunter trespass

The familiar scene of hunters perched along the side of Haliburton's roadways during the two weeks of deer hunting could come to an end if a proposal by the Ministry of Natural Resources is adopted.

In a bid to cut down on the amount of trespassing by hunters and to improve safety conditions, the ministry is considering a proposal to ban hunting on road allowances during the deer hunting season. Stan Flemming from the ministry office in Minden attended last Wednesday's county council meeting to describe this proposal and answer any questions.

Like the ministry,

Haliburton County Council is concerned about the amount of trespassing that goes on during the two weeks of the deer hunt. Some council members had hoped to convince the ministry to insist that hunters specify on their licence applications exactly where they would be hunting. This information would be listed on their licences making it easier for a conservation officer to determine if an individual hunter has permission to be on a certain property. If a hunter does not own land or have permission he would be allowed only to

Look for The Times next Tuesday

With the Christmas holiday season upon us, it is necessary for The Times to adjust its publication dates. Please note, the next edition of The Times will appear Tuesday, December 27. Advertising deadline for that issue (both display and classified) is Wednesday, December 21 at 4 p.m. The Times office will be closed Friday, December 23 and Monday, December 26. Seasons greetings from everyone at The Times.

Santa's a busy fellow

Jolly old Saint Nick was a very busy fellow all last week, visiting dozens of parties throughout the Highlands. Just some of the stops he made last week include the Stanhope Firefighters' Christmas Party, the Minden Legion Christmas Party, the Kinmount Santa Claus Parade and at a number of school Christmas parties. Matthew Davidson was one of many youngsters to receive a gift and whisper into Santa's ear during the Children's Playgroup Christmas party on Thursday.

Environment tops Warden's concerns

1989 County Warden Keith Tallman.

Environmental concerns will again be a priority for Haliburton County Council in the coming year, newly-elected Warden Keith Tallman indicated in his address at council's inaugural meeting last Tuesday.

Tallman, a veteran member of County Council, was chosen by his peers to Haliburton's highest political office, replacing Bob McCausland. This will be the second term at the county helm for the Monmouth Township Reeve. His first term as warden was in 1978.

Waste management and water levels were the issues topping his list of priorities for the coming years. Other issues he addressed in his remarks were the development of the former CNR line, and meeting future space needs at Hyland Crest.

The new Warden was first elected to Monmouth Township Council in 1967. He came to County Council in 1973 as Deputy Reeve, and in 1978 was one of the very few Deputy Reeves of the county to become Warden. In 1979, Tallman was elected as Reeve of Monmouth Township and has continued to hold this position.

"I am honoured in being elected as Warden this year," Tallman said to his peers on County Council. "I appreciate the confidence you have placed in me.

I pledge my support and will work to the best of my ability."

For the first time ever, County Council members had the opportunity to select their new Warden by secret ballot. However, since Tallman was the only candidate to be nominated, there was no need for the vote and he accepted the post by acclamation.

"I want to thank Murray Fearrey for nominating me and Bob McCausland for seconding the motion and the members for supporting the resolution," he said.

"As a result of our past election, we have many new members here tonight. I want to congratulate them on their successful campaign and also to welcome them as new members. As Warden, I would like to share with you some of the items we will be addressing over the next year."

Waste management

Better management of the garbage generated throughout the county was the leading campaign issue in almost every municipality in the Highlands. Outgoing Warden Bob McCausland had made it one of the top priorities for the county one year ago

W.I. meeting

There was a special Christmas meeting of Minden Women's Institute at the United Church hall on December 14 at 2 p.m. Christmas music went on played by Jean Cox. Mrs. C. Lacey, our president, welcomed us all and after the usual business, members shared in the seasonal programme with readings or greetings and we all especially enjoyed the solo by Grace Coburn.

Mrs. W. Moore reported sending 20 cards during the past two weeks and collections for Pennies for Friendship and Card Fund were taken up.

Happy birthday was sung to the four members having birthdays this month. Everyone then greeted everyone else with a handshake or a hug.

Six guests were present and were introduced by their hostess member. The W.I. Grace and God Save the Queen completed the meeting. The guests chose our carols to sing and Mary Cox and Jeanne Sears gave out exchange gifts.

Next meeting is January 18 at 2 p.m. at the Common Room. Then all enjoyed the delicious buffet set out by the committee and a good visit went on.

Best wishes to all for a Happy New Year from W.I. Members.

Hi Kids!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

Today's puzzle has a special hidden message. When finished with the list - read all the letters that are not circled to find it.

Hunting regulations considered

hunt on Crown land and this would also be specified on the licence.

Although this sounds like an easy task for the ministry to accomplish, Flemming said it would be a "horrendous job" trying to put that all together. He noted that most of the hunters in this county are from outside the area. When they apply for their licences, many are planning to hunt on property owned by friends. In this case, it is unlikely they would be able to provide the exact lot and concession, Flemming said.

Flemming also noted that providing this information on the licences would not be putting any new restrictions on hunters. Hunting on private property without permission is already illegal. The problem, he said, is that in order to prosecute, the land owner has to be willing to attend court. "A licence allows you to hunt, but it doesn't give any special privileges...to trespass, for example".

Of the estimated 7,000 hunters who participate in the deer hunt in Haliburton every year, 6,000 are from outside of the area. Every year there are complaints about people hunting without authorization on private property, and every year there are complaints from drivers who are nervous about people with loaded rifles standing at the roadside.

Although it is against the law for a hunter to shoot across a roadway, it is plain to see that this is what some are planning. They sit with their backs to the woods, facing the roadway while others hunt in the woods on the opposite side of the road.

By banning loaded firearms from the roadsides during the deer hunt, it is hoped that complaints from adjacent property owners will be fewer.

Under the present system, it is legal to hunt on the road allowance between private property and the actual road.

and succeeded in initiating the waste management masterplan in his term.

"As a result of continuing growth in Haliburton County, extra demands are being placed on our waste disposal sites," Tallman said Tuesday. To address these concerns and protect our environment we will proceed with a County Waste Management Study."

Water levels

An issue that has been festering in Haliburton County for at least two decades is that of the fluctuating lake levels caused by the Trent-Severn Waterway management. This, too, was a priority expressed by McCausland a year earlier. However, there has been little progress in convincing the federal government of the need for action.

"We must regulate the amount of water that is being taken from our lakes to feed the Trent Canal System," Tallman said. "Therefore, we must request meetings with the Federal government to resolve these deplorable conditions."

During the recent federal elections, this issue was finally brought to the attention of environment minister Tom MacMillan. However, this bit of progress was defeated when MacMillan lost his bid for re-election.

At a regular council meeting Wednesday, Harry Davis who chairs the county water levels committee, expressed frustration at this lack of progress. However, he noted that MP Bill Scott has promised to do whatever he can to arrange a meeting with the new minister. He has also promised to try to address this problem through a Private Member's Bill.

Railway

Following through with a policy for the use of the abandoned CNR line will be another matter this council will be dealing with over the next year. Only recently, the county received title to the narrow strip of property running between Haliburton Village and Kinmount. The goal now will be to establish a policy through which all potential user groups can enjoy the trail.

"We will appoint a committee of council that will establish policy to regulate and control all uses of property we have purchased," Tallman said.

Tallman also said it is important that a study is implemented this year to determine the future accommodation requirements for Hyland Crest.

Over the next year, Tallman said council must also address day care, pay equity and a county policy manual. Continued support for the Chamber of Commerce and the county library were also encouraged by Tallman.

988 days

Despite all the evidence, Christmas for some children in Minden, and for the community as a whole, is 988 days away. That may seem like a long time to wait, but we think everyone will agree, this is one present well worth waiting for.

988 days from today is September 3, 1991, the first day of a new school year. 988 days from today, the students of Archie Stouffer Elementary School should be together again under one roof. 988 days from now the "temporary solution" will no longer be needed. 988 days from today, doors to the newly built classrooms will swing open to welcome youngsters to another year of learning.

When parents and ratepayers of this municipality agreed to allow the school board to convert a former grocery store into classrooms late last spring, it was on the understanding this was to be a temporary situation ... three years at most. They were told the period was needed to give the board and the Ministry of Education time to muster their resources for a new addition to the Minden elementary school. The community has not forgotten that commitment and, although 988 days can seem like a long time, in the world of bureaucratic building it is little more than the twinkling of an eye.

The former grocery store, which now houses the primary grades, may be an adequate temporary solution to the over-crowding at Archie Stouffer Elementary School, but it is not an adequate solution to that problem. Despite the efforts to make the building look and feel as much like a school as possible, it will never be one. There are just too many shortcomings for this structure for this building to be accepted by the community, staff and administration as an acceptable alternative to properly constructed classrooms.

In the short term, Christmas is just six days away. Let us all enjoy the fun and special meaning of the season. But, as we move into the new year, let us not lose sight of the promise made last spring and the 988 days which remain to see it fulfilled.

"WRONG MACHINE, DONALD."

Waiting for the second shoe to drop

Well, here we are in December, entering the home stretch. 1988 is about to be trussed up and slung into the ash can of history and that makes me panicky. I'm not ready to retire this year yet. Too much unfinished business.

It's not just the ten pounds I swore I'd lose or the books I vowed to read. It's all these newspaper stories I collected over the past eleven months. Little items that would appear in the paper and make you think 'Holy Smoke! Isn't that incredible?'

I'd cut the story out and wait to see what happened next. Nothing happened. The story was never mentioned again.

Which leaves me with a large and mostly useless collection of stories I wish I'd heard the end of. Stories like, well, the giant worm of Canterbury for instance. A wildlife park in southeast England has what's left of quite possibly a world record earthworm. A camera

black 'n white

by Arthur Black

crew from the Guinness Book of Records was filming all 1.98 metres of the worm when it croaked and began to break up. "But the head section lived" explained Park Boss Alan Breeze inexplicably, "and I have placed it into a heated tank with some high-quality earth in the hope that it will grow again."

That's the last I ever read about the giant Canterbury worm. Guess I'll have to wait for the Stephen King movie.

Then there was that scientific experiment in New Zealand. China shop proprietor Grant Burnett said he was tired of wondering what a bull in a china shop would actually do. "He will find out on June 16th" says the newspaper clipping "with a borrowed Hereford weighing about one tonne."

Did the bull trash the joint or tip toe through without so much as rattling the Wedgewood? Search me. Never heard or read another word about the affair.

Pity. I was looking forward to a series of followup experiments such as Taking A Bull By The Horns, Placing Cats On Hot Tin Roofs and Catching Tigers by Their Tails.

There was another unfinished news story somewhat closer to home - from the lobby of Vancouver's Four Seasons Hotel as a matter of fact, where, if you happened to be passing through during the last election campaign, you might have seen a beet-faced (more on page 5)

Missing bathrobes

hotel manager screaming into a telephone. He was chasing down the Prime Minister's campaign entourage which had checked out of the Four Seasons minutes earlier. The manager's problem? Well the folks with the PM had checked out more than their bags it seems. Missing were 31 fluffy guest bathrobes - you know, the expensive ones, with the hotel logo on the pocket? (Brian and Mila, I hasten to add, were above suspicion in this cheesy caper. The culprits appear to be the scurvy media jackals travelling with the PM's party.)

How about it? Did the embarrassed hacks and flacks cough up their purloined bathrobes or did the hotel have to bill them? Did the thieves pay? Did their cheques bounce? Beats me. There was no follow up story.

Which is not surprising when you consider that the folks who write follow up stories might well have had a, er, ... divested interest, so to speak.

Let me finish with my favourite unfinished story of 1988. It involves a hard-luck chappie by the name of Sir Ranulph Twisleton-Wykeham-Fiennes. Yes, that is his real name. Sir Ranulph is a throwback to the old Lawrence of Arabia school of adventurism. A former officer of the British Commandos, Sir Ranulph is always haring off somewhere to climb a mountain or shoot some rapids or hack his way through a spot of jungle. Last winter he announced plans to hike 425 miles across our Arctic to the North Pole.

He didn't make it. Only managed 45 miles, before the expedition had to be aborted. All because of a urine sample. On what turned out to be the last day of the expedition Sir Ranulph was doing his duty into a glass vial. The temperature was -56 Celcius. Sir Ranulph had mitts on, making the operation somewhat clumsy than usual. "I must have touched the side" explained Sir Ranulph, stiff upper-lippedly, "which led to an unfortunate frost-nip situation."

Sir Ranulph may yet make it into the 1988 record books.

As the only human to take a more disastrous urine test than Ben Johnson.

Jesus was not a Christian

directions

by Edward Moll

Jesus was not a Christian.

Isn't it strange, sometimes, how the obvious seems so often hidden? You look around for your car keys, practically turn the house over in desperation, and there they are, hanging on the hook by the front door. Most discoveries are like that: not so much finding something new as uncovering something that was always there.

Jesus was not a Christian. Neither, for that matter was Mary, or Joseph. And I have a nagging suspicion that God isn't either.

Jesus was born a Jewish son in a Jewish peasant family about two thousand years ago. Since that time, centuries of tradition, fable and just plain prejudice have clouded the simple, unadorned fact that Jesus was a Jew. He was born at a time when his people were despised and mistrusted by the powers that were, when even the most influential of his people would have overlooked the birth in the cave as another example of how ignorant and uneducated the poor could be.

What, then, are we doing, celebrating this birth? Is not Christmas a "Christian" holiday?

I doubt very much whether the pagan festival of modern day materialism that we've seen over the last eight weeks bears any resemblance to a birthday of the Saviour, Christian or otherwise.

Does that shock you? I hope it does. I hope to God it does.

The birth of that Jewish baby in Palestine twenty centuries ago still resonates today, but not because of the birth. You see, beyond all expectation, some people have seen God work in the life and death, and the rising again of that child-become-adult, of that Word made Flesh. Jesus may not have been a Christian, but those who have decided that his life was worth their own have been called that.

There was a Christmas parade a long time ago in London, Ontario. They had all the usual floats of Disney characters, Mother Goose figures, clowns, brass bands, and of course the expectation of seeing Santa at the end. Somewhere near the end of the parade a local United Church had entered a float. There was the typical manger scene, shepherds, wise men, Mary and Joseph and the angels. That was all well and good, but as the float passed by, people noticed something else on the flatbed truck there, behind the manger scene, was a large crude, bloodied cross, and behind that, an empty tomb. As the float passed by, a silence gathered over the crowd like a shroud over a coffin. Someone quipped, "Boy, what a way to spoil the Christmas Spirit."

On the contrary, I think they got the message across very, very clearly.

Will you?

From our house to your house, may you all have a blessed and thoughtful Christmas and a joyous New Year.

Seniors: an important segment of our community

by John Eakins, M.P.P.

This week I would like to focus discussion on our Senior Citizens - the dynamic and vibrant component of our social fabric.

The increase in the number of elderly citizens in creating a new generation of issues which will have profound effects upon provincial services and government priorities.

Recognizing this, Ontario was the first provincial government in Canada to appoint a Minister Responsible for Senior Citizens' Affairs. In the same spirit expressed by this move, the government continues its commitment to the almost one million senior citizens in this province.

Recently, the fourteenth annual Report on the Ontario Advisory Council on Senior Citizens was tabled in the Legislature.

Established in 1974, the Council advises the Government, through the Minister for Senior Citizens' Affairs, on matters relating to the well-being of seniors in Ontario. Council membership was increased from fourteen to sixteen members in order that it might better serve this growing vital segment of Ontario's population.

The council appointed three sub-committees to study seniors in the home, seniors in the community, and seniors and their finances. These categories allowed the sub-committees to study matters within their respective fields and relay it, through the Minister, to the appropriate government Ministries. This process ensures that recommendations and reports are of substance and worthy of consideration.

Among its activities for 1987-88, the Council sought public consultation for a range of policy options affecting our senior citizens such as health and related services, transportation, housing, tax reform, and mandatory retirement.

The Advisory Council publishes a quarterly newspaper, "Especially for Seniors", which is mailed directly to every senior citizen in Ontario receiving Old Age Security. Its circulation has now reached 937,000.

On a related topic, I just want to remind you that the Ministry of Revenue has distributed the second installment of the 1988

Ontario Property Tax Grant cheques to eligible senior citizens throughout the province.

Some 630,000 households will receive $187 million, with the average cheque worth $297.00.

The first installment of up to $300 of the Property Tax Grant was received by seniors in May of this year.

Seniors who turn sixty-five this year and who have not received the first installment of the grant will be issued the full year's entitlement in the form of one cheque. At the inaugural meeting of Haliburton County Council last Tuesday evening, the chain of office was presented to new County Warden Keith Tallman. His first official duty as Warden was to present outgoing Warden Bob McCausland with a plaque in recognition of his outstanding leadership during the past year.

Committees reflect environmental concerns

The continued emphasis on addressing environmental concerns in Haliburton County is reflected in the structure of the committees for the coming year.

At last Wednesday's council meeting, committees for 1989 were set, and it is clear from the personnel that the greatest amount of importance is being placed on the development of the waste management masterplan. Five veteran council members, including immediate past warden Bob McCausland were chosen to sit on this committee.

The committees for the next year are as follows:

Management and Personnel Committee: Murray Fearrey, Ray Moore, Harry Davis, Bob McCausland, Carol Puffer and Maurice Bradley.

Finance and Correspondence: Ed Vallance, Keith Murphy, Ann Barker and Jim McMahon.

Roads and Property: Bill Davis, Ray Moore,

Harry Davis, Bob McCausland and Don Shortreed.

Hyland Crest Committee of Management: Murray Fearrey, Bern Berry, Bill Howe, Ed Vallance and George Simmons.

Haliburton County Library Board: Bern Berry, Glen Madill and Keith Murphy.

Chamber of Commerce: Ann Barker.

Children's Aid Society: Maurice Bradley.

Health: Keith Tallman.

Planning Committee:

Five members of the Minden Figure Skating club travelled to Port Carling on December 10 to participate in the Santa Skate Competition. Earning excellent results at the competition were Kristi Barkwell, Marita Schrader, Cori Barkwell and Andrea Pawluch. Janene Garbutt also participated in the event, but was absent for this photograph.

Minden skaters fare well at competitions

On Saturday, December 10 five of the Minden Senior skaters travelled to Port Carling to compete in the Santa Skate competition.

The day's event started with Marita Schrader. Marita was the first skater in the first event and started Minden off on a positive note by finishing 3rd in her flight of pre-preliminary ladies. Andrea Pawluch was in the second flight and finished first while Kristi Barkwell was in the third flight and also finished first. In the final for pre-preliminary ladies Kristi placed seventh and Andrea second!

Skaters leave their mark in the competitive world

In the preliminary B ladies, Janene Garbutt skated a clean program and finished sixth. Cori Barkwell competed in the Junior Bronze Ladies B event, which was also a final, and finished first.

In the compulsory moves event Marita Schrader finished seventh, Andrea Pawluch sixth and Janene Garbutt third in their respective flights. Janene advanced to finals where she finished sixth.

Congratulations girls. You're certainly leaving a mark in the competitive world.

On Sunday, December 6 Sara Henderson passed her Kilian dance at test day held in Peterborough. This was Sara's last Senior Silver dance leaving her just her Gold to complete all the compulsory dances. Way to go Sara!

A large number of our Canskate skaters travelled to Ops last Saturday to compete in the Lindsay Scugog Frolics.

Danielle Berube was third in her flight. Kim Langille placed sixth, Kyla Grexton was second in her flight, Courtney Wells and Amy McKnight placed seventh in their separate flights. Julie Vanderlip and Sara Brohm each placed fourth in their flights while Robin Flood was fourth in the final. Sara Ladurantaye placed fifth and Stacy Walker was sixth.

Keri Hartwick was second in her flight and was second overall. Louise Howell was first in her flight and was third overall.

Tristen Pawluch was first over all.

This is the first competition for a lot of these skaters and congratulations goes out to all of them.

These skaters are coached by two of the club's professionals, David Hollorus and Dianne Garbutt with help from the Canskate co-ordinator Marilyn Ranson and the Canskate coaches.

It must be rewarding to see these skaters perform so well.

The Club would like to thank these people for all their help in making Scugog Frolics successful.

The Skating Club would like to wish everyone a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Red Cross accepting donations for victims

In order to help provide relief to the Armenian Earthquake victims, the Canadian Red Cross Society is accepting donations at all Red Cross Branches.

Red Cross teams on site were immediately helping to collect blood donations and distribute relief supplies to the victims. These included tents, blankets, medical and first-aid kits. The first relief planeload left Moscow shortly after midnight on December 8, containing 14.5 tons of goods.

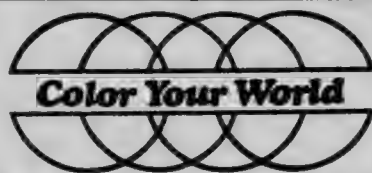

Minden area residents wishing to help out can do so by making a donation by cheque or money order to the Minden Red Cross Branch. Donations should be made out to The Canadian Red Cross Society Armenian Disaster Relief. Tax receipts will be issued.

One in three Armenians is a member of the Red Cross and the Armenian Red Cross is drawing from this large pool of manpower to assist the victims. A task force has been set up by the Soviet Red Cross to co-ordinate aid to the victims and to assess relief supplies and services needed.

DRUNK DRIVING KILLS!

Will alcohol claim you as yet another victim of escalating statistics? Each year, the scene is the same. Friends gather together, and will have a drink or two...or three. Then it's time to go home. Whether around the block or long distance, the effect of even one drink makes you a threat to yourself and others! Reflexes become sluggish and judgement is impaired, in short, you become a potential killer as soon as you get behind that wheel. This season, if you drink, use your head. Don't drive. If a friend has one too many, encourage him to find another way home. Don't let your celebrating lead you down a dead end street...permanently!

The annual Stanhope Firefighters Christmas party was a huge success again this year as dozens of local children came out to the community centre to meet Santa and take part in the many activities going on throughout the afternoon. In addition to the visit from Santa, the kids were treated to music, songs, games and some delicious baked goods.

There is no way to drink and drive safely

You may not be able to ask your holiday party guests to punch a time clock or get on a scale, but how fast they consume alcoholic beverages and how much they weigh are two critical factors in determining if they should drive - or even walk - home.

And, not insignificantly, these factors can help you determine if you're putting yourself on the legal line for their safety - and others' - when they leave your party.

Ontario law holds that the servers of alcohol, be they bartenders or hosts, can be held responsible for the safety of drinkers and for the damage they cause to others if they are legally impaired.

Robert Solomon, a law professor at Western University and legal consultant for the Addiction Research Foundation's Server Intervention Program (SIP), is an expert in liability and alcohol use.

"If you serve a guest past the point of intoxication and he harms himself or others, you can be held liable for serving him too much alcohol. So, basically there is a responsibility for you to control the conduct of your guests," he says.

That's why holiday hosts may want to take a tip from the ARF's Server Intervention Program which has taught over 2,800 Ontario bartenders and owners how to protect their guests - and themselves.

Suzanne Brunet, head of SIP, says, "Responsible service of alcohol is the duty of any host or hostess. You want to create an enjoyable environment for your guests, and you don't want them to become impaired."

"If guests do become intoxicated you must ensure their safety and the safety of others. Make sure they don't drive. Either send them home in a cab or offer them overnight accommodation."

"Remember there is no safe way to drink and drive," she adds.

According to the Addiction Research Foundation, the average person needs only to consume about two-and-a-half standard drinks in the first hour of drinking to reach an impaired level. For these purposes, the average person refers to a male of 160 lbs. or a female of 120 lbs., of average leanness and without food in the stomach.

The responsibilities are chilling but there's no need to cancel your holiday plans if you follow some common sense guide lines. By offering soda water or other non-alcoholic beverages as spacer rounds and providing low alcohol beverages you can prevent guests from becoming impaired.

It's also a good idea not to make alcohol too accessible at a party. Appointing a non-drinking person as bartender can help monitor the amount of alcohol your guests consume.

The ARF advises that alcohol consumption be limited to less than one standard drink per hour to stay safely below the legal limit of 80 mg/100 ml BAC.

The type of food you serve, too, can play a role in protecting your guests from impairment. High protein food is ideal for party guests because it slows down the rate at which alcohol is absorbed into the blood.

Isabel Herrmann, a therapeutic dietitian at the Addiction Research Foundation, suggests serving high protein, non-salty foods such as unsalted nuts, raw vegetables with dip, meats and unprocessed cheese.

For 1988's holiday season, you'll have to rely on your judgement and common sense to protect your guests and yourself.

But Dr. Bhushan Kapur, Director of the ARF's Clinical Laboratories, says that hosts - as well as bartenders - will soon be able to input some information about guests and use a specially programmed calculator to signal last call.

"Based on an individual's weight, height and gender the calculator uses a mathematical configuration to determine blood alcohol content," Dr. Kapur says.

Dr. Kapur has also designed a computer program that will soon be available. Even more advanced than the calculator, the computer program projects how many hours you have to wait for your blood level to fall below 80 mg/100 ml and below 50 mg/100 ml. Between 50 mg/100 ml and 80 mg/100 ml a policeman can suspend your licence for 12 hours and take away your car keys.

Atoms down Bobcaygeon 4-3

Saturday's game was to be the first tri county game to be played by the Minden Atoms.

It proved to be a very tight game with a 4 - 3 victory for Minden over Bobcaygeon.

Minden's first goal was scored by Todd Redgrave; assisted by Andrew Crego.

Minden's lead was short lived as Bobcaygeon came through to tie the game; the battle was on and we were to see some real good hockey.

Before the first period came to an end, Todd Redgrave fought back with an unassisted goal.

The second period proved to be even more exciting, with Bobcaygeon once again tying up the game.

Minden were not going to be beaten, their third goal was scored by David Raback unassisted.

Shortly after Minden scored a fourth goal, once again Todd Redgrave netted the puck assisted by Andrew Crego.

Still Bobcaygeon found heart and came back with their third goal, but with great determination Minden held them off and the third period failed to produce any more goals.

The final score was 4 - 3 to Minden. Well done lads.

Keeping an eye skyward

by Marion Strebig
Federation of Ontario
Naturalists

How many Golden Eagles have you seen? How many Canada Geese? I've seen a Golden Eagle once in my life. Last winter from a ridge in Petroglyphs Provincial Park I watched an immature Golden Eagle soaring on great wings over the plain below. I expect it may be some time before I see another. The Atlas of Breeding Birds of Ontario notes that the species is a rare breeding bird in Ontario.

Canada geese, on the other hand, graze all winter in the golf course near my home. Although there was a time when the Canada Goose population was so greatly reduced as to cause concern about their future, stricter hunting controls and reintroduction programs have raised numbers dramatically in the Mississippi flyway from 49,000 birds in 1950 to 1,127,500 birds in 1985 and the numbers continue to rise. The Mississippi flyway is the migration path of Canada Geese from the Great Lakes region.

Both these species are protected under the Game and Fish Act. However, because there are so few of them in Ontario, the Golden Eagle has been given special protection under the Endangered Species Act which states that "No person shall willfully kill, injure, interfere with" any species of flora or fauna protected under the Act.

The Canada Goose, on the other hand, being no longer in danger of extermination, receives no special protection outside the Game and Fish Act except in one place, the Jack Miner Migratory Bird Sanctuary. In 1936 the provincial government passed an act incorporating the Jack Miner Migratory Bird Sanctuary which gave Jack and his descendants leave to "shelter, feed, care for, protect and defend all migratory wild water fowl and all migratory insectivorous and song birds..."

While we certainly owe Jack Miner a debt for giving impetus to the conservation movement in its early days, his idea of conservation was limited. Although we all have favourite creatures, most people would hesitate to divide God's creatures into "good guys" and "bad guys". Jack Miner didn't hesitate. He made it plain that his conservation ethic did not include birds of prey, except to destroy them. To this end he shot them, trapped them and pioneered the use of the pole trap.

In a pole trap a leghold trap is secured to the top of the pole by a chain. When a bird caught by the leg tries to escape it is pulled back to dangle at the end of the chain. Such traps do not discriminate. Small perching birds like Bluejays and Red-winged Blackbirds are frequent victims. Pole traps are considered so inhumane and unselective in their target that the Ontario Trappers Association has worked to get a regulation under the Game and Fish Act making them illegal.

This dark side of the Miner conservation philosophy is not widely known. Jack Miner's descendants have adhered to this philosophy taking up his ruthless war against predators and continuing to use pole traps which are technically illegal, although no charges have ever been laid. In the spring of 1988, a FON observer discovered that the perimeter of the Jack Miner Sanctuary was ringed with leghold traps, many of which had dead occupants, including a dog, several cats and skunks. Within the grounds, pole traps were set near the ponds. Not a pretty picture of a "sanctuary".

Golden eagles

However, the trapping incident which recently brought the sanctuary into the limelight involved the trapping of a Golden Eagle in a muskrat trap at the Miner Sanctuary. The Miners complained that the eagle had been hanging about spoiling the "air-show". This is a performance engineered by Jasper Miner in which he drives his red all-terrain vehicle near the geese, flushing them into flight. The eagle, a predator, was doing what comes naturally, looking for an easy meal. As long as he was there the geese refused to perform, evidently thinking discretion the better part of valour. Therefore, the eagle was trapped and put in a cage.

Eventually the Miner's were charged under the Endangered Species Act and the bird released. At the trial the Miners used as their defense the 1936 Jack Miner Act giving them the right to "protect and defend" migratory water fowl, and were not found guilty. If this decision is allowed to stand it means that there is a special law for the Miner's which permits them to "manage" the sanctuary without regard for the realities of species population. If this decision is allowed to stand, it will send a message to the general public that conservation of one species at the expense of other species is endorsed by the Ontario government.

Ironically the species which has been the principal reason of the Sanctuary, the Canada Goose, is now so numerous it is considered a nuisance by many southern Ontario municipalities, while the bird Jasper trapped, which few people in Ontario have ever seen, could have been turned into the sanctuary's star attraction. This treatment of the eagle would have meant the Miners really understood the word conservation.

On your toes, dancers

The Haliburton - Minden area is about to establish its own performing dance company under the guidance of Dr. Janis J. Guthy and Ms. Diana Kuna.

The idea to start the company was the brainchild of Guthy who has been involved with dance both on a professional and a personal level for many years. After meeting Diana Kuna, a professional dancer, the two women decided to give it a try with a pilot group which was going to open the Country Pickens and Village Shoppe Fashion Show at PineStone. Due to circumstances the show was cancelled and the new company will appear in the Spring show.

Diana is extremely well qualified to teach the would-be dancers as she has studied all forms of dance for many years as well as danced professionally with "Danse Eclectique" dance company.

Rehearsals will be on Tuesdays and Thursday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Dysart Community Centre. Although the company will be non profit, incidental fees and fundraisers will have to be implemented to cover basic costs. The company also is desperately looking for donations of wall mirrors and costumes.

Auditions will be held on January 9 at 7 p.m. at the Dysart Community Centre. Although it is not necessary to have dance experience, candidates must have rhythm, co-ordination and the commitment to dance. The company will learn basic ballet, jazz and modern contemporary.

The company has expectations of a two hour dance review before the summer of 1990 but in the meantime it will make itself available to host community organizations and functions.

Auditions are open to either male or female s, over the age of 18 years, who have dance ability and co-ordination and who can remain committed to the company. Please call Dr. Janis Guthy at 457-1514 on Monday, Wednesday or Friday 1 - 6 p.m. if you are interested.

Count your drinks this year

by Doreen Hawman

Many individuals are under the impression that spirits are a strong drink, while beer and wine are light. This idea is not only false but dangerous. The truth is 12 oz. of regular beer, 5 oz. of table wine and 1/2 oz. of spirits all contain the same amount of alcohol.

The amount of alcohol needed to reach a specific blood alcohol level varies, depending on the weight of the individual.

For your convenience Seagrams has again supplied the information centre with wallet size charts, to be used as an aid to determine a person's blood alcohol level. If you are planning a party during the festive season it would be wise to arrange for transportation or have a list of designated drivers available, to avoid any liability to you.

Address changes

The Ministry of Health and Welfare reminds pensioners who are having their cheques deposited directly into a bank account, that changes in a home address should be made promptly to ensure the delivery of the annual T4A slip and any other communications.

Drop into your nearest information centre, to pick up a chart. In Haliburton, the centre is located in the Drag River Municipal Building, Maple Ave., open Monday to Friday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. or call 457-2733. For residents of the Minden area, the centre situated in the Municipal Building, Milne St., is open every Tuesday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. or call 286-4100. Both offices will be closed December 26, 27 and January 2.

The staff of the Haliburton County Information Centre would like to take this opportunity to wish you and yours a safe and Happy Holiday.

Furnace inspection

Ontario residents are being warned to ensure household furnaces and chimneys have been thoroughly inspected within the last year.

Fires and carbon monoxide poisoning can be caused by malfunctioning heating systems, says fuels safety experts with the Ontario Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations.

"The low cost of an inspection and cleaning can save enormous grief," says Bob Clendinning, director of the ministry's Fuels Safety Branch. "Too many people ignore this simple safety step and the consequences can be tragic."

An annual checkup is necessary for all types of fuel burning heating systems - gas, oil and wood alike. Homeowners with wood stoves or fireplaces should be particularly vigilant about having their chimneys cleaned.

To get the best deal on an inspection and any necessary maintenance, contact at least three registered home heating contractors for estimates.

Information about contracts, home renovations, buying services and many other consumer issues is available from the Consumer Information Centre at 555 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ontario M7A 2H6 - (416) 963-1111 or toll free at 1-800-268-1142.

IN MEMORIAM

McLEAN: Jean Eleanor. In memory of my beloved wife, who left us December 20, 1987.

Since you went first and I remain,
One thing I'll have you do;
Walk slowly down that long path
Where any day I'll follow you.
I want to know each step you take
So I may take the same
And some day, down that lonely road
You'll hear me call your name.

The hills are getting steeper
Jeanie. Please wait for me.
With all my love, Mac.
